

New England Arbors Upgrades Best Selling Nantucket Arbor with PVC Arches and Wider Opening

January 2009- In an effort to continually improve their product line, New England Arbors has upgraded their best selling Nantucket Arbor. The Nantucket Deluxe has pure PVC arches, English style PVC lattice, and a 50" opening, making it ideal for the professional fencer. The new model is the same price as the original, offering much more value for the same price.

The new Nantucket, christened the Nantucket Deluxe, will be offered in conjunction with the original Nantucket arbor. "The original Nantucket is our best selling product," explains Denise Esser, Sales Manager of New England Arbors. "By offering both in parallel, we can ensure that the transition from the original to the Deluxe is as smooth as possible."

The Nantucket Deluxe is designed with the professional fencer in mind. Not only are the side panels and arches made with pure PVC, but the 50" span is ideal for wider sidewalks. Additionally, the 4x4 posts are free of aesthetic trim to provide a clean, consistent look with vinyl fences, also ensuring that fences and gates can easily be attached to the arbor. The arbor side panel uses brackets instead of routes for a more secure installation, making it easier for pressure treated or aluminium stiffeners to penetrate the posts.

A computer generated animation of the components and assembly of the arbor can be viewed on the company's website, www.newenglandarbors.com. The arbor has been in design mode for a couple years. "The challenge was that we wanted something that not only looked great, but also delivered exceptional quality at a great value. Designing a superior product for the same price as the original was a challenge," says Stephen Prins, President of New England Arbors and principle product designer. "We're proud of the end result. This product is the bold new standard in vinyl arbors."

New England Arbors is celebrating ten years of offering a wide variety of vinyl arbors.
